

The Long and Short of After-Five

Both long and short gowns will be after-five favorites this spring. Smocking has been promoted from the kindergarten to the girl-about-town set (left) in this short pink chiffon dress by Ben Reig. It is beaded from neck to hip and ends in a flappy skirt. A long, sinuous torso stretches lazily down to meet a kicky skirt (center) in navy naked wool. This cocktail dress has its own trimmed triangle to toss as you please. Long white crepe sheath (right) is banded at hip and bosom with sparkling jeweled geometric lines. These exclusive, new-for-spring designs are by Bob Bugard for Sam Friedlander.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The spring evening scene, judging from the fashion showings here in New York, will be either long, flowery and slinky or short, feathered and flounced. You can take your choice.

You can also choose between the sparkling jeweled look or the flat crepe look with no glitter at all.

by Helen Hennessy, Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

The strapless gown is still with us and the one-shoulder dress continues to be a favorite. Newer is the halter neckline.

Many spring after-five gowns have long sleeves even when the hemline is short.

Diamond side cut-outs and lots of ostrich and feather trim inject a siren look into spring evening wardrobes.

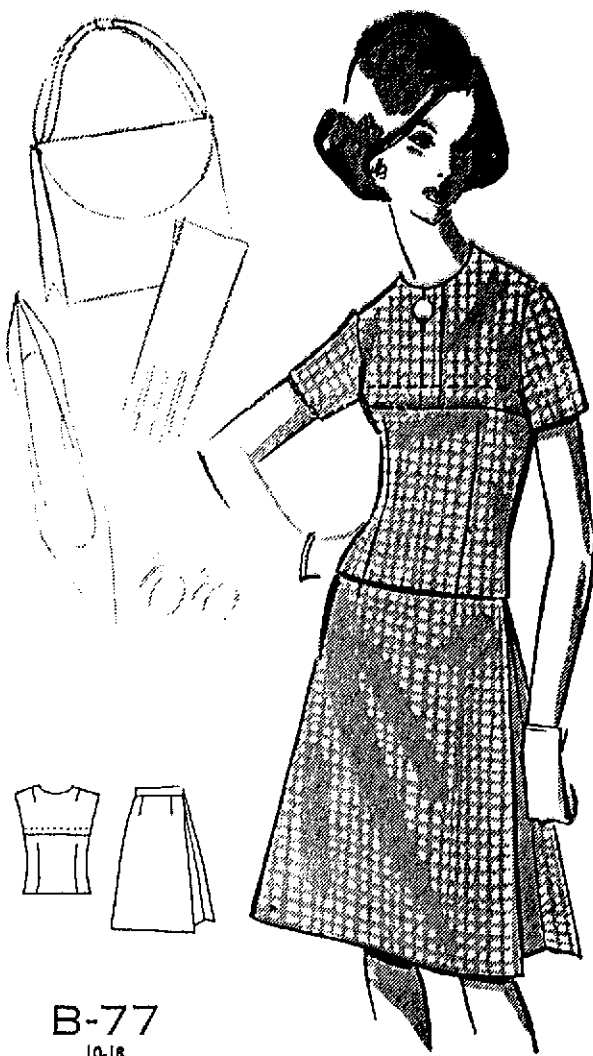

Flowered chiffon steals a good part of the show and white has just about become today's basic black.

There is white crepe, white matte jersey and spidery white cotton lace.

Since everyone can't successfully wear white, there's lots of pink, yellow, pale green and blue around. And navy is now coming into its own for evening as well as daytime.

Clothes for the cocktail hour are so feminine and pretty that they will delight any woman worthy of the name.

CLOTHESMANSHIP

YOU'RE A BEAN POLE?

Try wearing a narrower brimmed hat if you want your shoulders to look broader, and if you've a long, thin face, wear a wide tie. The tie, for some reason, helps to fill out the face.

Vaudeville Is Forever Dead But the Palace Is Alive Again

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The old girl has had a fresh make-up job, and she looks lovely.

Her age shows, but in the elegant manner of someone wearing her years with dignity and grace. She sparkles, she's wearing bright red with cream accessories and crystals, and she's getting ready to play hostess again in a manner which recalls her years as Broadway's dowager queen.

She's the Palace Theater, that mecca of entertainment, that vaudeville shrine where most of the greats have played (Al Jolson, George M. Cohan and Sir Harry Lauder, however, are among those who never played the Palace). The Palace is the place where, in every movie ever made about early vaudevillians, one would say to the other, "One day we'll see our name in lights at the Palace." The line was always accompanied by a sweeping left to right gesture of the right arm.

The name in lights at the Palace now is Gwen Verdon's, and it's appropriate that the talented redhead, the delight of critics and the public, should reopen the house on

Jan. 29, in the new musical "Sweet Charity."

There are still a few finishing touches to be added to the Palace, but sitting in the plush red seats, watching a large crew working on the newly enlarged stage, there were moments when you felt you were watching a piece of modern choreography.

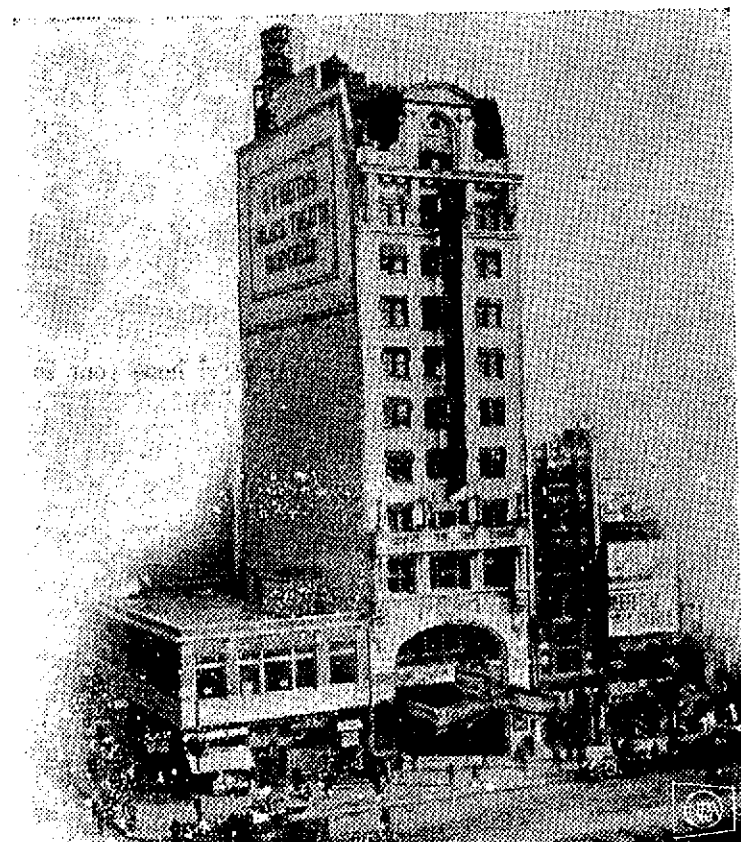

Ralph Alswang, a noted Broadway designer, is in charge of the restoration. It was he who, knocking down plaster walls decorated in a style he calls "early Ruby Keeler," discovered much of the original Palace behind the additions.

"It is not an exact restoration," he said. "But we have taken the best of the Palace, we have avoided the extravagant use of marble which would make it look like Grand Central Station, and we have made a bouquet to the past."

The Palace opened March 24, 1913, and for about the first three months of its existence, it was a box office flop.

Then "the divine" Sarah Bernhardt played an engagement there in a series of one-act plays (she was paid in gold before each performance), and the theater was on its way.

An attempt was made several years ago to revive live performances at the Palace. Judy Garland and Harry Belafonte were among those having successful engagements. But the theater reverted to grinding out movies. The last film to play there was Joseph Levine's "Harlow," leading a cynic to suggest that, in addition to remodeling, it was also necessary to fumigate.

HOW IT USED TO BE: A view of New York's Palace Theater in 1913 when vaudeville was king.

The theater was purchased last August by the Nederlander Theatrical Corporation, owners of successful, elegant houses in Chicago and Detroit. James Nederlander, a son of the head of the corporation, says the restoration of the Palace cost around a half-million dollars.

"We had to enlarge the orchestra pit from the 15 men used for vaudeville to the 32 needed for musical theater. We tore out dressing rooms on the side of the stage to give us more room. We had to rip out all the plumbing. And we had to install a different system of counterweights to handle the scenery. After all, in vaudeville they only used flats. This is the kind of job that pyramids. We knock out one set of pipes, only to discover they lead to another, and so on."

There's one man working at the theater who has vivid memories of the Palace as it was. He is Tom Murray, nicknamed "Mr. Broadway," the stage doorman. He played the Palace as a character singer in 1914 and 1917.

For the past dozen years, Murray, in his 70s, has been working as the stage doorman at the Helen Hayes Theater, and now he is returning home. "It's lovely to be back," he said.

FLOWERY WELCOME—Flower leis bestowed by welcoming Vietnamese girls were old stuff to troops of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division. Some of the units arrived from Hawaii. Others moved in from Okinawa, boosting U.S. troop strength in South Viet Nam to more than 190,000.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In recent months CBS has sampled the nation in connection with television shows and found that we are not very good automobile drivers and that our knowledge of citizenship and matters of health is limited. Now NBC has come along with the coup de grace: apparent few of us are absolutely honest. That hurts.

NBC's adaptation Sunday night of the audience quiz show consisted of 16 do-it-yourself questions, each with a number of subdivisions. There were dramatizations, candid camera shots, dissertations on cheating and religion's effect on morals, endless statistics and a number of demonstrations of how circumstances may change one's opinion of right and wrong.

One question concerned a bookkeeper who altered his company's ledgers and took $40, the national sample overwhelmingly condemned the act. But when the ante was raised to $30,000 which the man took so that his wife could receive vital medical care, 42 per cent admitted they might do the same thing to save a life.

The program established adroitly at the outset that most of us are, or have been, dishonest at times.

The questions covered padded insurance claims, attempts to bribe a police officer, taking material from one's job. The final question was whether the individual test-taker thought he was as honest as the rest of the country. Sixty-two per cent thought they were — but from the returns that doesn't sound very impressive.

CBS' "Alumni Fun" returned for a third season Sunday afternoon to help fill the void left by football. This season the questions seem considerably more difficult. The show, a variation of the old "College Bowl" format, might be more interesting if the competing teams of illustrious old grads were given a little more freedom of expression.

Antelope Transfer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — About 40 Colorado antelopes soon will be flying to Florida to become regular residents.

An official of the State Game, Fish and Parks Department said the pronghorns will be turned loose on a 200,000-acre tract near Vero Beach. It's an exchange deal, the official said, but it hasn't been determined what Colorado will get in return.

Dear Helen: Just wondering if your readers could help me find a recipe for Irish Soda Bread made with beer. It's a hard bread and very tasty.

Also, do you have a recipe for mustache wax? —Mrs. E. J. W. Jr.

Dear Mrs. W: Sorry. . . Does anyone? I've heard of Irish Whiskey with soda that would curl your mustache, but bread and wax have nothing to do with it. —H.

Dear Helen: I would like to know if there are any good exercises to flatten the rear end of your body. I am in pretty good shape except I look awful in tight pants. —D.

Dear D: I've heard bouncing across the floor on your hips is a pretty good fanny flattener, but I don't put much faith in it. However, it keeps your husband amused.

A half-hour of general exercises every day will tone you up, but if you're born to be hippy and added weight will lodge there. Watch the calories, and be glad you aren't like the girl who wrote, "I'm so skinny that if I turned sideways and stuck out my tongue they'd take me for a zipper." —H.

Dear Helen: Where in New Jersey is an actress located who runs a cat farm? I understand she takes in stray cats and gives them homes. I have 20 that need a home desperately! —H.M.

Dear H: I hope your 20 cats found a home elsewhere as I haven't been able to locate the New Jersey cat farm. —H.

Dear Helen: I have heard that if you save the little plastic opening "strings" from cigarette, gum, etc., wrappers, and the metal strips from the unwinding key on shortening and coffee cans, you can turn them in and get a seeing-eye dog for the blind. Is this true? — Girl Scout Mother

Dear Mother: I have heard this often, in varying forms — Mainly so many pounds of plastic "strings" will provide so many pounds of dog. Can you imagine how many strips it would take to make a pound? There's your answer. Tain't true! —H.

Challenge to Jacks Game Is Accepted

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard Crimson's first woman managing editor has accepted the challenge of the managing editor of the Yale Daily News to a game of jacks.

But, she says, "Before the meet I'll cook dinner for him."

"It may be nice to spend an evening with him," said Linda C. McVeigh, 19, the first woman managing editor in the 93-year history of the Crimson, a student daily newspaper for Harvard and Radcliffe College.

John Rothchild, managing editor of the Yale student newspaper, wrote Miss McVeigh and complained that she was "a member of the female conspiracy to undermine maleness."

"I will not contest your masculinity," Rothchild wrote, "which you and other females have proven in your too often successful assaults on man's castle."

"I challenge you to the girl's game of jacks," Rothchild wrote, "regular twosies or triple boucies."

"That's really sad," Miss McVeigh said. "Well, the Yale Daily people are very sensitive about the Harvard Crimson. They have a nice building but not much else."

She said she'd like to cook dinner for Rothchild over at the student co-op she shares with 24 other girls.

"Once every two weeks," she said, "we have to cook dinner for everybody, so I'm sort of used to the feminine duties. We get a lot of practice being girls."

"You know, he's assuming that I'm just trying for a victory for femininity," she said. "That's not true. I'm just human. He'll find out that a managing editor — even a girl managing editor — can be quite human."

Decision This Week on Bombings

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to decide this week whether to resume the bombing of North Vietnam. But any major new escalation of the Vietnamese war, such as bombing Hanoi, is considered unlikely at this time.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Sunday night the decision on renewed bombing is still to be made. He refused to say what he favored or predict what course Johnson would choose.

The President is caught between advocates of totally contradictory proposals. Many foreign governments, some members of Congress, some officials in the administration favor prolonging the pause. Others, including military leaders, and top American officials in Saigon would like to start pounding North Vietnam again quickly.

Rusk said Johnson is taking all elements of the situation into consideration, including the fact that "we must do all we can to assure the safety of our own and Allied forces" fighting the Communists in South Vietnam.

Some military planners are reported to have put up proposals that the United States not only start bombing again but change the restrictions which existed all last year in order to allow attacks on Hanoi, the capital, and Haiphong, the port of North Viet Nam.

It is understood that Johnson has no such intention of broadening the war at this time. However, officials said that the new look at policy and strategy now getting under way could possibly lead to changes in his thinking about what is needed.

Rusk said Sunday night in an NBC radio-television interview on "Meet the Press" that the escalation of conflict depends on the aggressor. Johnson had said last week that he wants to keep the war limited if possible.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he hopes the President will continue the bombing pause as long as there is a "faint glimmer of hope" for peace negotiations.

Mansfield gave his views in an interview as Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara scheduled reports to committees on the Viet Nam situation.

Rusk briefs the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the world situation, with emphasis on Viet Nam.

Dayton Chalks Up Win No. 14, Only 3 Losses

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's getting close to voting time for the 1966 college basketball All-America. One of the leading candidates is Henry Finkel of the University of Dayton Flyers.

The 6-foot-11 senior from Union City, N.J., demonstrated his finesse Tuesday night in pacng Dayton to an 85-57 home-court triumph over Los Angeles Loyola.

The 23-year-old Dayton star missed just one shot as the Flyers chalked up their 14th victory against only three defeats. He made 12 of 13 tries from the field and got four-four from the foul line. That added up to 28 points.

Finkel, a "proven star" in the words of his coach, Don Donohue, will face sterner opposition Saturday night when the Flyers invade Philadelphia to battle the St. Joseph's Hawks, fifth-ranked in the Associated Press poll.

None of the AP Top Ten teams saw action as the mid-year examination lull continued.

Ron Williams, West Virginia's star sophomore, sparked a fast break with 24 points to lead the mountaineers to an easy 90-79 road victory over Pitt. Larry Szzykowski tossed in 29 points for the losing Panthers.

Alabama also won on the road, beating Mississippi State 71-63 in a Southeastern Conference game. Creighton and Villanova, each playing at home, beat LaSalle and St. Peter's of New Jersey, respectively.

Wally Anderzunas' 27 points paced the Bluejays over LaSalle's Explorers 104-90. Bill Melchioni got 23 points for Villanova in the Wildcats' 94-66 conquest of St. Peter's. It was victory No. 1,000 for Villanova since the Philadelphia Main Line team started playing in 1921.

Graham Has Promised Excitement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Otto Graham, new coach of the Washington Redskins, promised the fans plenty of excitement and the players plenty of hard work next season — but he did not predict whether the team would do better than this year's 6-8 record.

"I realize that winning is the most important thing in pro football, but I think you have to put on a good show, too," Graham, 44, said in an interview with the Washington Post.

Graham, who as quarterback led the Cleveland Browns to six straight Eastern Division titles and three National Football League championships, was selected Tuesday for a long-term Redskins contract at a salary reportedly about $50,000 a year.

Graham said he would "rather risk losing some games by say 25-28 and have the fans up off their seats with excitement," than win a dull 3-0 game.

Head coach of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy since 1959, Graham often had said that he did not want to return to pro football — or even college coaching — because of the attending pressures.

"I had mixed emotions about leaving the Coast Guard Academy, which is the best college coaching job in the country," Graham said. "But Washington is one of the best — if not the best franchise — in pro football and represents a wonderful opportunity and challenge."

Known as a hard-driving, rough disciplinarian, Graham said, "I think hard work wins football games, but I think football can be fun, too. I am not Vince Lombardi, but I am tough. I am firm, but fair." He referred to the strict Green Bay Packers coach.

The Redskins front office, meanwhile, said that while it had put no time limit on Graham, a winning team is expected next year.

Chink Leaves Crack in the Yank Infield

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The first crack in what once seemed an impregnable New York Yankee armor has left a deep crack in the Bombers' infield.

Shortstop Tony Kubek, hampered by injuries through most of last year's sixth-place Yankee finish, has decided, at age 29, to retire from baseball.

Kubek, who played on seven pennant winners in his nine years as a Yankee, announced his decision Monday after undergoing a thorough examination at the Mayo Clinic last fall.

Reports from the clinic indicated that pressure on Kubek's spinal cord which apparently is the result of a fracture in the cervical section of the neck could affect his reflexes.

The fracture, previously undiscovered, apparently was suffered several years ago and bone spurs and nerve damage have developed. Doctors at the clinic told Kubek that months of rest might alleviate the condition but the veteran infielder felt there was a possibility of permanent damage if he tried to play.

There was speculation that Kubek might have suffered the original injury in the final game of the 1960 World Series against Pittsburgh when a grounder hit by Bill Virdon struck a pebble, bounced up, hit Kubek in the throat and caused him to snap his head back. The bouncer led to a five-run eighth inning for the Pirates and Pittsburgh went on to win the game and the Series on Bill Mazeroski's lead-off home run in the last half of the ninth inning.

Kubek, who was Rookie of the Year in 1957, had a career average of .266 in 1,092 games as a Yankee. He batted .218 last year in 109 games.

"Naturally, we are very sorry to lose the services of such a fine shortstop as Kubek," said Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk. "But we heartily concur in Tony's decision to retire. His own future health comes first and we all join in wishing Tony the best of everything in the future and a speedy recovery from his physical difficulties."

But the Kubek cloud had a silver lining for Houk when Tony's keystone partner, Bobby Richardson, notified the club he would be back for 1966.

Richardson said there had been a "good chance" that he would not return for another season were Kubek healthy. "Tony, Ralph Houk and I have had a sort of three-way gentlemen's agreement about this for some time," Richardson explained.

Meanwhile, the Mayo Clinic doctors had another important Yankee patient. Mickey Mantle underwent a two-hour operation for the removal of a bone chip in his right shoulder and was reported in satisfactory condition.

Houk said a hospital spokesman told him Mantle would be ready for the March 1 opening of spring training at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "We understand now," Houk said, "that Mickey should have no more pain and it is very happy news for us."

Horse Likely to Become Millionaire

By GENE FLOWDEN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A sturdy little bay gelding named Roman Brother is likely to be the next thoroughbred to become a millionaire.

Roman Brother, 5-year-old son of Third Brother, made his first start of the season at Hialeah Park Tuesday and was impressive under 123 pounds for seven furlongs.

With his regular rider, Braulio Baeza, in the saddle, Roman Brother ran the distance in a brisk 1:24 1-5 and won ridden out. Near the finish, Selari came at him, but Roman Brother just galloped away.

Six other older horses went postward, and Selari, at 114 pounds, finished second, followed by Sunstruck, Prime Minister, Tudor Manor, Judge Morris and Rub Down.

Roman Brother, a Florida-bred owned by Lou Wolfson of Harbor View Farm and trained by Burley Parke, was 3 to 5 favorite and paid $3.40 and $2.40.

Roman Brother, horse of the year in 1965 in some yearling polls, earned $5,200 in the $8,000 event and boosted his lifetime winnings to $940,403. He was bought at the Hialeah sales in 1963 for $23,500.

He is the richest horse ever sold at public auction and the first from a sales ring to be named horse of the year.

Wisconsin Elated Over Court Ruling

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin has a legal siege gun in place today after winning another battle in its war to keep baseball from abandoning Milwaukee as a major league city.

A decision by Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller cleared the way for a temporary injunction designed to block the shift of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

It also opened the gates to a full-scale judicial review of baseball's unique exemption from antitrust laws.

Roller, who refused Tuesday to dismiss the state's antitrust action against the Braves and the National League, also had been expected to rule on the injunction sought by the state.

He declined, explaining that he first wanted to confer with counsel for both sides "to determine whether there are any further developments."

By developments, Roller was apparently alluding to the possibility of a pretrial settlement that would assure Milwaukee a future as a city with a major league team.

Should there be no settlement the trial is scheduled to open in Roller's court Feb. 1.

Baseball officials had little in the way of comment on the ruling. Warren P. Giles, National League president, said the decision was "not unexpected." He refused to say anything more on the case.

Baseball may challenge the ruling by asking for a review by the State Supreme Court. Such a motion would not necessarily affect the trial date, a matter which remains in Roller's hands.

Should an injunction be granted pending the outcome of the trial, the Braves would be faced with contradictory court orders in two different states and the National League would be faced with still another legal headache.

A Fulton County, Ga., court has already ordered the Braves to fulfill their contract with Atlanta authorities by playing their 1966 home games in Atlanta Stadium.

Roller referred to that injunction in his ruling Tuesday, saying that Georgia authorities have no direct legal interest in the Wisconsin case.

Thomas A. Reynolds, Jr., Braves' executive vice president, also cited the Fulton County injunction Tuesday in commenting on Roller's ruling. Reynolds predicted the Braves would open the season in Atlanta.

Wisconsin officials were elated by the decision.

"We are moving forward with all possible speed in preparation for trial," Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said. "By this decision, the court upheld our position that the state of Wisconsin has jurisdiction to enforce its antitrust laws against the business, baseball."

Celtics No Longer Lead Division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics got an Oscar and no longer are leading the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Actually the Celtics didn't get Oscar Robertson, they just got the business from him as the Big O led the Cincinnati Royals over Boston 113-101 Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Royals into first place by a game over the Celtics and 1½ games over the Philadelphia 76ers, who edged Los Angeles 110-106 in the first game of a doubleheader at New York.

In other games, the New York Knicks followed the 76ers' victory with one of their own, 115-100 over Detroit, and St. Louis crushed San Francisco 142-107.

Robertson scored 35 points and contributed 10 assists as the Royals built up a 15-point margin, 84-69, at the end of three periods on their home court.

Adrian Smith added 24 points and Jerry Lucas 18 points and 32 rebounds for the Royals. Boston, hurt by the absence of Willie Naulls, Tom Sanders and John Havlicek because of injuries, was led by Sam Jones with 24 points.

Orioles Will Wear Names on Backs

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles will wear names on the backs of their baseball shirts this year.

A model of the shirt was unexpectedly unveiled Tuesday when Frank Robinson, the newest Oriole, posed for pictures on his first visit to Baltimore.

The Orioles also are expected to add an orange peak to their black caps, and change slightly the design of the bird on the cap.

Johnson Is Trying to Buy Time

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — With his $4.8 billion of quickie tax-busters, President Johnson is trying to buy some time.

Even if Congress approves them by March 15, as he has asked, the maneuver won't rule out any general tax increase. That still could come in 1967 or 1968.

It all depends on Viet Nam. What happens there—an escalation to full-fledged war, a negotiated peace, or some condition in between—"must be at the center of our concerns," as Johnson told Congress last week.

Even if the fighting does not escalate but merely continues at its present intensity long enough, Johnson eventually will have to ask for a boost in income and corporate tax rates. His three tax measures are only temporary revenue-raisers.

If the hostilities do escalate seriously, a general tax increase would come sooner.

In the happier event that the guns cease firing in Viet Nam, the three revenue measures would simply run their course. They represent no permanent burden on economic growth.

By contrast, higher tax rates—once written into the law books—would be harder to get rid of.

The White House proposals would restore the auto and telephone excise taxes to their pre-New Year's rates until 1968; provide a graduated scale of rates for income tax withholding; and bring large corporations to a pay-as-you-go tax basis in one year instead of five.

If the economy should falter, the excise rates could be cut again, virtually overnight. The corporate tax speed-up could again be stretched out. Any overwithholding of income tax would flow back to consumers as tax refunds at the end of the year.

But more probably, the three devices would serve a useful antinflationary purpose in the period when "overheating" is a hazard — the months ahead when federal spending rolls up to a $112.8-billion-a-year rate.

Johnson thus would be enabled to make good his guns and butter pledge — his promise that the "Great Society" programs of education, health, welfare and manpower development will not be sacrificed to pay for arms or to curb inflation.

The restraining effect of the tax devices would begin to play out, presumably, at approximately the right time — the time when the big surge of defense contracts begins to subside.

If, instead, the fighting intensifies and the spending continues to rise sharply, Johnson still can turn to the potent and unused fiscal weapon, a general tax increase.

Koufax Still Slowed by Arthritis

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Sandy Koufax says he hopes everyone who has arthritis "has as little trouble with it as I did with mine."

Koufax was told he had the world's most celebrated case of arthritis Tuesday night when the Los Angeles Dodger pitching great was honored by writers and praised by baseball men at an awards dinner.

Koufax was presented the Dickie Kerr Award by the Houston chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. It is given to the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues.

Willie Mays, San Francisco Giant center fielder who was presented the Tris Speaker Award for his contribution to baseball over the years, called Koufax "just the greatest."

Walter Alston, Koufax's manager, was given the Rogers Hornsby Award for the World Series' outstanding personality.

Harry Walker, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was presented the Eddie Dyer Award as the comebacker of the year. He called Koufax "now the greatest in the game."

"I hear about his bad arm all the time, but it is always well when I come around," Walker said.

Koufax had praise for Mays and said:

"Willie always tells me how tough it is to get a hit off me but every time I look up he is on second base."

Autopsy on Horse Is Being Made

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Horsemen and officials of Bowie race course awaited an autopsy report today to see if the incurable disease swamp fever caused the death of the thoroughbred, East India II.

The horse died late Monday on a farm near Laurel, after having been isolated since Friday with four other horses from the stable of trainer Bryan Webb.

The four still under strict quarantine must undergo a lengthy and expensive inoculation test believed to be the only certain method of determining the existence of the highly contagious swamp fever.

Restrictions were lifted Tuesday for 17 other thoroughbreds trained by Webb after they were cleared by blood tests at a laboratory in College Station, Tex. The horses will be allowed to resume training.

Testing began for 27 other horses from the stables of five other trainers, as the Maryland Racing Commission moved to determine if the dreaded equine disease actually existed.

Chuvalo Has Another Setback

LONDON (AP) — The hopes of chunky George Chuvalo for a heavyweight title bout with champion Cassius Clay have received another rude setback.

The Canadian champion from Toronto was outpointed by little-known Eduardo Corletti, a 24-year-old Argentinian, in a 10-rounder at Olympia Hall Tuesday night.

"I guess this has set back my program for a challenge against Clay, but that is still my objective," said the 28-year-old Chuvalo, who last year was defeated by Floyd Patterson and Ernie Terrell in two other bouts.

"If Corletti had stood up and fought like a man, I would have beaten him," Chuvalo added. "But he kept going back, back, back."

Corletti, who competed in the 1960 Tokyo Olympics in boxing for Argentina and turned pro in 1963, was much the faster man in the ring and kept out of any possible trouble by dancing away.

"They don't come any tougher or stronger than Chuvalo," said Corletti, who now lives in Italy and fights out of Rome.

"George rocked me once or twice toward the end, but I think the crowd agreed that I won a good fight on better boxing ability."

Chuvalo weighed 206½ to Corletti's 191½. The Canadian's record now is 37-10-1 in 48 fights. Corletti has won 12 of 19 bouts with two defeats and five draws. He gained attention with a victory over British heavyweight Billy Walker last year.

Henry Cooper, the British heavyweight champ who also has hopes of a title bout with Clay, knocked out Hubert Hilton of Glen Cove, N.Y. in the second round of another fight on the same card. Cooper weighed 192½. Hilton 194½.

NEW YORK (AP) — The first crack in what once seemed an impregnable New York Yankee armor has left a deep crack in the Bombers' infield.

End to Bad Weather Is Now in Sight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast today brings hope to snow-weary Arkansians: The end is in sight.

The cloud cover that blotted out the sun and showered snow on all parts of the state will begin to break up, clearing for fair and continued cold weather Friday, the bureau said.

Some light, scattered snow flurries remain in the picture as skies change from cloudy to only partly cloudy through Thursday, the bureau said.

The additional snow flurries was not expected to add much to the blanket already on the ground—more than four inches deep in some parts of the state.

Highways in parts of the state, particularly the southern portions, remained hazardous, State Police reported.

The forecast calls for low temperatures tonight to range from 16 in the northern parts of the state to the mid 20s in the south. Highs Thursday were predicted in the low to high 30s.

Overnight lows dipped into the teens and 20s, with the lowest recorded at Gilbert, where the temperature dropped to 12 degrees.

High temperatures Tuesday ranged from the high 20s to the mid 30s, with the highest at Ozark, which had 38 degrees.

Boyce Urges Grass Roots Support

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sam H. Boyce, president of the Arkansas Young Democrats, has urged development of a grassroots organization to support the Democratic Party's gubernatorial candidate this year, whoever the candidate may be.

Boyce said Tuesday that he was gratified that the Democratic State Committee had certified the Boyce slate of officers in the YDC.

The Young Democrats split at their state convention here last May with one faction electing Boyce and another faction electing a slate headed by Sheffield Nelson of Little Rock.

Boyce said the action was "a gratifying result of a fight which has consumed almost a full year. We deeply appreciate the help of the members of this committee that assisted us in this fight despite the strong opposition by administration forces."

Boyce said he hoped other Democratic Party leaders will take affirmative steps toward the development of a grassroots organization which is not predicated upon the election of a particular Democratic candidate for governor, but rather will be geared to support whichever candidate the Democratic Party sees fit to elect in the forthcoming primary.

Nelson got the backing of senior party officials in the dispute following the convention last May.

But the National Young Democrats recognized Boyce's faction as the official Arkansas group and the Boyce group wrote Democratic State Committee Chairman Leon Catlett asking for certification by the state committee.

Catlett recommended granting the request at a committee meeting here Tuesday.

Drug Fraud Case Before the Jury

CHICAGO (AP) — A jury of seven housewives and five men is deliberating the fate of Dr. Andrew C. Ivy and three others charged with fraud and conspiracy in the sale and promotion of Krebiozen.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman of U.S. District Court handed the case to the jury at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The jurors deliberated until 10 p.m., then were locked up in a hotel for the night.

Judge Hoffman said the jury will remain under the custody of U.S. marshals until it reaches a verdict.

Krebiozen is a substance taken by some cancer sufferers which the government contends is not an effective medication.

The jury heard the testimony of 178 witnesses, 121 testifying for the government and 57 for the defense. The trial ends its ninth month Friday, and is the longest trial in Chicago's federal court history.

A transcript of the trial filled more than 18,000 pages and formed a stack of books seven feet high.

The defendants are Dr. Ivy, 72, director of medical research at Roosevelt University and chief sponsor of Krebiozen; Dr. Stevan Durovic, 60, developer of Krebiozen; his brother, Marko, 64, a lawyer; and Dr. William F.P. Phillips, 52, a general practitioner who has administered the drug.

They are charged in an indictment with mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale and promotion of Krebiozen.

The government contended Krebiozen is worthless in the treatment of cancer. The white, powdery substance — which its proponents say is derived from the blood serum of horses — has been banned from interstate shipment by the Food and Drug Administration. It can still be purchased in Illinois.

The defendants waited in a corridor outside the courtroom as the jury deliberated.

The white-haired Dr. Ivy, a former vice president of the University of Illinois and a famed physiologist, talked to newsmen as the jury deliberated.

"I am hopeful and will always be hopeful," he said. "It was a principle we fought for here. The most important thing here is the welfare of the cancer patient. The trial hasn't hurt me or Krebiozen."

With varying combinations of six types of fraud violations and conspiracy, and accusations ranging from 5 to 40 counts, the penalties possible for individual defendants, if convicted, are a complex picture.

Dr. Durovic was indicted on 40 counts involving possible maximum penalties of 140 years imprisonment and $364,000 fines; Dr. Ivy is named in 37 counts carrying a maximum of 127 years and $334,000; Dr. Phillips, 13 counts, 41 years and $14,000 and Marko Durovic 5 counts, 25 years and $14,000 maximum.

Ball Like Fire Works Recalled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Distributors here and at West Memphis will get more than 2 million "cracker ball" fireworks back from the federal Food and Drug Administration, if they agree to send them out of the country.

The FDA said the fireworks, seized June 22 in a national drive by the agency, would have to be exported under its supervision.

The FDA said the fireworks resemble candy, and several children had been injured by biting them.

Farmers Get Break on Withholding

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas farmers got a break Tuesday from an attorney general's ruling which led to a regulation exempting farmers from the state's new income tax withholding law.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said the law does not apply to farmers because it was apparent to him after reading it that the 1965 legislature had intended to exclude farmers.

Bennett's opinion went to state Revenue Commissioner Doris McCastlain and she then issued a regulation exempting farmers from registering or withholding state income taxes.

Some legislators said last week they had been getting complaints from farmers because they (farmers) were required to register as withholding agents.

A Legislative Council committee, headed by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, met with Mrs. McCastlain last Friday and urged her to look into the matter. She said she would refer the problem to her legal staff.

Harvey said he favored a special session of the legislature, if needed, to repeal the provision requiring farmers to register as employers.

The withholding law required farmers to register as employers by Jan. 1. The deadline was put back to Jan. 20 and then last Friday Mrs. McCastlain extended it indefinitely.

Bennett advised Mrs. McCastlain that the tax law reference to wages excludes pay "for services performed by an employee in connection with farming activities where the amount paid is $150 or less a month."

Bennett said, "The exemption covers any farmer who employs persons at less than $150 a month, and they need not withhold. In other words the exemption for farmers as contemplated in the act is a total exemption from withholding providing he has any employee who receives less than $150 a month."

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Finding Cause of Eczema Is Biggest Step to Cure

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What are the symptoms of neuritis and what is the treatment?

A—Neuritis is an inflammation of a nerve that may or may not be associated with degeneration of the involved nerve. The symptoms vary but, in general, if a motor nerve is involved there is weakness or paralysis of the muscle it supplies. If a sensory nerve is affected there would be pain in the early stages of the disease and later a complete loss of sensation.

The treatment would depend on whether the neuritis was caused by an infection (antibiotics might help), injury (rest and time), vitamin B deficiency, poor circulation or some form of poisoning.

Q—What causes retrobulbar neuritis? Is there any cure or does it become progressively worse?

A—This is one form of neuritis of the optic nerve. In most victims it is a part of multiple sclerosis. Although there is no known cure for this disease, the associated optic neuritis rarely leads to complete blindness.

Q—I have been taking Pro-nestyl for six months and for the last three months I have had arthritic pains. Could they be caused by this drug?

A—Pronestyl is a derivative of procaine. It is given for rapid heart action and other disturbances of cardiac rhythm. It will neither cause nor cure your arthritis.

Q—My doctor says I have eczema of my ear. When it gets infected there is a discharge. Can this be cured?

A—Eczema is a general term for any itching skin condition with crusting and oozing. It may be caused by bacterial or fungus infection, allergy or contact with an irritant such as poison ivy. In some women, earrings are the triggering factor. Find the cause and you will be half-way to the cure.

Q—Are there any after-effects to a spinal tap? My spinal fluid was normal but ever since I have been peevish and sleep a lot.

A—Following a spinal tap some persons have a headache for a few hours. The doctor usually prevents this by replacing the volume of the fluid lost and by elevating the foot of your bed. There are no other after-effects so your doctor should seek some other cause for your symptoms.

Useful Gadget Busybodies and the Logan Act

Syd McMath tells me about The Case of the Frustrated Automobile Driver — himself. Syd had a "short" in his headlights that he had been neglecting, and the other night when he came out of a Saratoga basketball game, the car wouldn't start.

Syd says a Saratoga man bailed him out with a jumper-cable which permitted him to borrow power from his own car to start the McMath machine.

Exactly. And a jumper-cable is just what every driver should carry in his own car at all times. I've had one for years. It enables you to borrow help from the nearest 12-volt automobile, or from a boat at a launching ramp — or, vice versa, the car can kick off a baulky boat engine.

In these days of automatic transmissions an automobile with a "dead" battery is a help-thing. There's help all around you in the shape of cars with "live" batteries — but unless someone in the crowd has a jumper-cable you're out of luck.

An assistant professor at Yale named Staughton Lynd, a civil rights worker called Thomas Hayden, and a Communist party theoretician by the title of Herbert Aptheker went off on a private mission to Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, to discuss peace and criticize our American role in Southeast Asia — and then came home to do some allegedly important talking.

I was wondering how long it would take United States authorities to mention the fact that all three men violated the Logan Act which forbids U.S. citizens from contacting foreign officials on their own "with intent to influence the conduct" of a foreign power in a dispute with the U. S. A. — and I note that Washington has finally gotten around to re-discovering the Logan Act.

It's an ancient law by American standards, enacted in 1799 when some strong-willed private Americans undertook to negotiate personally with France at a time when our two countries were engaged in an undeclared war.

The Logan Act is still on the books — but not likely to be thrown against the three who went to Hanoi. Actually there never has been a prosecution under the Logan Act — but its principle is something that appeals to the average American's common sense nevertheless.

A country's foreign relations represent a field where authority has to be delegated to responsible public officials — and to them alone. Officialdom has trouble enough handling the problems of war and peace. Can you imagine what chaos would result if every Tom, Dick, and Harry were permitted to intrude with his own private prejudice, ignorance, and foolishness?

As in the particular case of the three who went to Hanoi — a college professor, a civil rights agitator, and a Communist party official.

Middle Aged Man With Small Mechanical Aptitude, Really in a Box of Frustration

By HAL COOPER

NEW YORK (AP) — A middle-aged man of small mechanical aptitude is in a box these days. Life is just one frustration after another.

They — whoever they are — may deny it, but there is a conspiracy to complicate everyday machines to the point where you need an engineering degree to cope with a typewriter.

Got a minute? In a middle-aged newsman's salad days the typewriter was a simple, sturdy, mechanical device for setting words down on paper. It firmly suppressed its personality, if it had one, and existed only to serve.

Any fool in the office could operate a typewriter, and many did.

Typewriters have changed. One of the new breed was foisted off on this corner recently by the office manager.

It has a streamlined body, aly tail fins, automatic transmission, power steering, banks of sealed-in computer units, tiers of buttons and levers and the over-all gloss of a high-fashion model.

It must weigh a good 35 or 40 pounds and at best only 25 percent is payload. The rest is window dressing to make the older typewriters look obsolete.

Merely setting the margins requires the use of no fewer than four buttons and toggle switches. These are easily confused with a bristle of similar devices for varying the touch tension, starting up the windshield wiper, turning on the built-in radio and raising the windows.

So far it has proved impossible to master the combination, and the typewriter just sits there in smug idleness.

A rumor monger in the office claims that if you should get everything set right simultaneously a secret panel on the right hand of the fuselage will spring open and decant a jackpot of 99 silver dollars. He may be right. We will never know.

Advantages of 14 B Told to Kiwanis

George Dickerson of Little Rock, an executive of the Arkansas Free Enterprise Association, Tuesday spoke before Hope Kiwanis club and pointed to the advantages of maintaining Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Law.

"The big labor bosses are trying to get this law repealed before the national congress in order to gain more control and power over American labor," Mr. Dickerson declared.

This is a definite threat, he said, to freedom to work in peace, and other freedoms the American laboring man has known down through the years.

Mr. Dickerson then pointed to Arkansas's twin labor laws, the Anti-Violence Act of 1943 and the Freedom to Work Constitutional Amendment of 1944. He said these two laws have accomplished much in the state's advancing industrial program in recent years.

Guests included a delegation from Magnolia, the Rev. Bill Boss, Berry Harie, George Stewart and Wade White. Other guests: Attorney Talbot Field, Jr., and Richard Keaton of Hope.

400 Missions by Warplanes All in South

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. warplanes flew more than 400 combat missions against suspected Red targets in South Viet Nam today and three U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers unloaded a coastal barrage of 729 heavy shells in a massive display of American firepower.

A U.S. spokesman said hundreds of huts and small buildings were hit in the bombardment of Viet Cong concentrations and supply camps, but the suspension of American air attacks against the Communist North continued into the 54th day.

U.S. Air Force and Navy plans, including the eight-engine B52 Stratofortresses from Guam, took part in the all-out assault.

On the ground, U.S. and other Allied troops extended their post-raid offensive but failed to prod the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese regulars out of their jungle hideaways.

At a long columns sloged through the forests and rice paddies, military spokesmen reported no major encounter with the enemy or any sign of the whereabouts of the North Vietnamese troops in the central highlands.

U.S. Marines fanned out of their big base at Da Nang, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, on 300 patrols in the last 24 hours, but mostly met only an occasional gunshot, mine or booby trap. They were seeking the Viet Cong mortar crews who lobbed 42 shells into the base Tuesday, killing three Americans and two Vietnamese.

One patrol came across an unknown number of Viet Cong shortly after midnight and a moderately heavy firefight ensued. One Viet Cong was killed, a spokesman said, and Marine casualties were moderate.

The multipronged Allied offensive began with the end of the 3 1/2-day Allied cease-fire Sunday night. The U.S. Command reported today that the truce brought a sharp decline in U.S. combat deaths last week but the number of Americans wounded went down only slightly.

Twenty-two Americans were killed and 193 wounded compared with 52 killed and 237 wounded in the previous week, a U.S. spokesman said. One American was reported missing in action or captured compared with three in the seven-day period that ended Jan. 15.

The number of South Vietnamese killed remained about the same while the number reported missing rose sharply. A government spokesman said there were 209 combat deaths compared with 198 in the previous week and 185 missing compared with 78. Vietnamese wounded are not announced.

Communist losses were put at 408 killed and 56 captured compared with 714 killed and 221 captured the previous week.

Although the government spokesman gave no explanation for the rise in the number of missing, the figure usually climbs during the Tet celebration when many troops take off to spend the holidays at home.

Johnson Plans on Rebuilding Selected Cities

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed today a $2.3-billion, six-year federal aid program for rebuilding selected American cities "on an unprecedented scale."

The President, in his message to Congress on the cities outlined a vast program for rebuilding center cities, reorganizing and governing metropolitan areas and building new towns outside existing metropolitan areas to provide for the nation's fast-growing population.

In his demonstration program, available to any U.S. city, Johnson proposed:

"That we make massive additions to the supply of low and moderate-cost housing.

"That we combine physical reconstruction and rehabilitation with effective social programs throughout the rebuilding process.

"That we achieve new feasibility in administrative procedures.

"That we focus all the techniques and talent within our society on the crisis of the American city."

Johnson said "there are few cities and towns in America which could not participate in the demonstration cities program. We shall take special care to see that urban communities of all sizes are included. The impact of the program will be significant, involving as much as 15 or 20 per cent of the existing substandard structures."

Worst Over From the Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The third and worst snow within 11 days overspread North Carolina today as wintry weather continued through most of the nation.

A belt of snow mixed with sleet and freezing rain swept across northern Georgia and central South Carolina and cold rain fell in Florida. Gale and small-craft warnings went up south of Savannah, Ga., and along Florida's western coast.

In North Carolina, snow harried drivers and forced many schools to close. Late Tuesday afternoon, 2 inches fell at Pope Air Force Base and by midnight, snow was falling over most of the state. A total of 4 inches was predicted before the snow was to end tonight. In the evening, Aberdeen, N.C., reported 3 inches and Raleigh, Waynesboro and Fayetteville 2 inches.

South Carolina was doused with snow mixed with sleet and freezing rain. Schools closed and low temperatures kept roads treacherous. Similar conditions prevailed in northern Georgia, where roads were reported icy.

Before the cold rain reached Florida, Fort Myers had reported a springlike high of 80.
